How To Start School: Pre-Sem!

By Amy Arnold

"That's me, Slick!" This exclamation reverberated throughout the Sierra Nevadas during the PRE-SEM trip that took place Sept. 7-17. What is PRE-SEM, you may ask? And, who in the heck is Slick?

PRE-SEM is a trip, or rather, an excursion extraordinaire, offered to usually first-year seminary students in order to provide an intense exposure to God's creation and a chance to get a head start on forming intimate relationships with yourself and with other students. This year, nine first-year students and two returning students took the challenge to go for ten days within NO toilet facilities, only two T-shirts, only 2 pairs of underwear, and NO showers (although at least eight PRE-SEMMERS are now members of the Fuller Polar Bear Club from jumping into much welcomed freezing streams). The group was led by former FTS grads, Suzanne Munro and Dave Willis.

Each camper carried a 60 lb. pack on their backs as they climbed uphill (some of the group will say it seemed all uphill) and downhill for three to seven miles from destination to destination. There was a five day stay at beautiful Rainbow Gap in the Hoover National Park. This was the time we went to Rock Climbing School where Slick, our teacher, became the closest thing to an earthly personal savior some of us will ever meet. You see, Slick sat up at the top of the mountain while we innocent victims depended on him to hold on to the rope while we scrambled up, down or sideways, if you did accidentally body slam into the mountain. Praise the Lord, though, for no real injuries occurred! !

The five day stay was topped off with a 24 hour solo day where each of us were placed alone (yes, alone) 100 yds. or so apart from each other for a time of incredible one-on-one with God. Reflections on

WE WANT YOUR PRAYERS, WE WANT YOUR PRAISE, WE WANT YOU!

Dear SEMI readers,

As we begin the academic year, many of us may be overwhelmed by all the tasks we need to accomplish. As we attempt to manage our time among family, work, school, and church responsibilities, we may feel like the juggling circus clown desperately trying not to drop anything in front of the watchful eyes of the audience.

But God has promised us peace amidst our chaotic lives. Phillipians 4:6-7 says "Do not worry about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus. (NRSV)"

We at the SEMI recognize the importance of prayer. There are situations arising within you and your family, the Fuller community, the Los Angeles community, and the world around us that are causes of concern. We believe prayer invites and involves God in each of these situations. And that as we share with each other our prayer requests and praise reports, we give Glory to Him and encourage each other in our Christian faith.

We are excited about a new prayer/praise feature, to be published bi-weekly, that will be added to the SEMI beginning next week. We invite members of the Fuller community to share prayer requests and praise reports for publication. Please keep in mind discretion is important when submitting prayer/praise reports. Sensitive material may not be suitable for publication. Please fill out the prayer request/praise report form, and return it to the SEMI office. Only written information will be accepted. As with all submitted materials, it is subject to editorial approval.

God Bless,
The SEMI staff

Dining With DAN

by Dan Payne

Rosalind Ethiopian Restaurant ph. (213) 936-2486

★★★★1/2 out of 4★

Hi, I'm Dan your co-dependent postman, and this week I want to tell ya about a great find I made in L.A. I usually try to keep my adventures close to home, but sometimes after a long day of listening to problem after problem, a guy just has to get away. If I hear one more story about a mailbox partner (who hasn't picked up their mail since the fall of the Roman Empire), I think I'm going to go to a music store, buy a violin, take lessons, and let the seminary pick up the tab.

Anyway, this past week I really tried something different. Thanks to my good friend Michael Mekonnen (Fuller's Ethiopian ambassador and mailroom guy) I've discovered yet another exotic food that has added spark to this otherwise dull postman's life.

The name of the restaurant is Rosalind located at 1044

S. Fairfax near Wilshire Blvd. This establishment is located in a district that boasts several good Ethiopian restaurants, but Rosalind is a favorite among the natives. It's not fancy, the service rather slow, but the wait is definitely worth your time. Since I had no idea what to order, I let Michael order for us. This was an act of faith since I didn't know the difference between a napkin and a chicken in the Ethiopian language.

Finally, the food came out. I was so hungry that I was starting to nibble on the tablecloth. My first question was "where's the fork?" There is nothing more miserable than sitting at a table full of hot delicious food and having nothing to eat it with. To me, this must be what hell is like.

Michael then explained to me how I was supposed to eat the food. In all my life, I never thought anyone would ever have to tell me how to eat (I'm an expert in this field, you know). I was humbled to find out that we were to eat with our hands (This I can do). To put it simply, your tear off a piece of bread (flat like a tortilla), throw it over the food, scoop it up, and eat it. We had several dishes and they were all delicious.

Weit is made from lamb and smothered in a tantalizing spicy sauce. We had another dish of sliced beef with red onions and various native spices.

Kitlo is made from ground beef, hot pepper, and cooked in real butter. A side dish was Aibb, which is a popular ground Ethiopian cheese, and made me swear off Velveeta forever. I had such a great experience at this place that I bought a one-way ticket to Ethiopia and was boarding the plane when Dr. Mouw showed up to politely remind me of my unfinished mission in the mailroom.

So there you have it, Rosiland restaurant is great but not cheap. My meal was about twelve bucks (half a days salary at Fuller) but was well worth it. so please, God, get away, explore, get ethnic, culture yourself, and bring Pepto (cause the foods so hot your tongue might fall off) but check it out cause Ethiopian food is happenin'.

Until next time, may your tummy be happy and your heart-burns be few. See ya next time in the SEMI.

this time the next day showed that each person had grown in a profound way.

We had to find our own way out, and for those of us who previously had not been able to find our way out of a paper bag, it was comforting when we finally found our van that led us back to civilization.

This trip is a must for everyone here a FTS - I mean it! During parts of it, I honestly thought I would cough up a lung, but none of us would trade the experience for anything. Anyone can do it - believe me, I am living Proof!!!

Thanks to all the PRE-SEM participants—Phil Archer, Ellen Barbour, Bruce Harvey, Ryan Jaarsma, K.K. Kot, Jon Leslie, Colm McCormack, Rebecca Morris, Laura Simmons, and Jack Sytsema - for making my experience unforgettable! It was comforting to know ten other people during Orientation last week. KUMBAYAH!!!

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICES OFFICE

A CALL FOR HELP FROM THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE OFFICE TO OUR FULLER COMMUNITY

Once again Fuller is welcoming approximately 50 new international students and their families to our campus for the fall quarter 1993. These international families are coming to the U.S., with very few things to help them feel at home. Therefore, your donations of used or new household items, linens, and furniture are desperately needed to provide them with the basic furnishings for their homes. The biggest need is for beds, sofas, dining tables, and chairs. You may call (818) 584-5396 to inquire about making a donation.

Also the Good Neighbor Program is in need of volunteers who would like to befriend and minister to an international family, couple, or single student. This is a wonderful opportunity to learn about different cultures, foods, languages, and to minister to one another. There is no monetary commitment involved. If you are interested in becoming a good neighbor, please call the International Student Services Office (818) 584-5395, or write to Fuller Box ISS. May the Lord bless you and guide you as you consider these needs of our community.

KOREAN STUDENTS!

Chapel news

SAINT LUKE, SAINT PAUL, AND SAINT EMILY ON CLOSURE

This week at Wednesday Chapel, October 6, our guest preacher is Dr. David W. Augsburg. Dr. Augsburg joined Fuller in September, 1990 as Professor of Pastoral Care and Counseling in the School of Theology after many successful years in seminary education and pastoring. The message will be taken from texts in Luke and Acts and is entitled "Saint Luke, Saint Paul, and Saint Emily On Closure." Wednesday Chapel is at 10 a.m. at the First Congregational Church, corner of Los Robles and Walnut. This time we think we have figured out the sound system so you'll be able to hear. Come join us to experience Dr. Augsburg, his great sense of humor, and an inspiring message.

The second opportunity for worship as a community is on Thursday at 11:35 a.m. in Travis Auditorium where the emphasis is on the mission of the Church to the world.

NEEDED SINGERS FOR CHAPEL CHOIR

The Fuller Chapel Choir needs voices to praise the Lord at the Wednesday All Seminary Chapel and other selected events. The time investment is small compared to the glorious results. The choir rehearses on Mondays at 10 a.m. at the First Congregational Church, corner of Walnut and Los Robles. There are eight $500 section leader scholarships awarded each quarter. No auditions required - just show up ready to sing! Dean of Chapel Office, (818) 584-5580.

MINISTRY ENRICHMENT SEMINAR

Dr. Gary Dennis, Pastor of La Canada Presbyterian Church, will present a seminar on, "Spirituality and Ministry" on Monday, October 11, 1993 at 11:00 in Payton 303. The spiritual life of the pastor is one of the most neglected and yet crucial parts of any minister's daily activities. Dr. Dennis will discuss the important role the spiritual disciplines play in his life as a pastor and help the participants explore for themselves how they might nurture and maintain their spiritual lives amidst the multiple demands of life and ministry. For more information, contact the Office of Field Education, 818-584-5377.

INTERNSHIP AVAILABLE

THE ASC: WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

How are you doing? You are now well into your third week of quarter and you're still hanging in there. Well done! You may be feeling a little swamped, but rest assured - it usually tapers off as soon as we get into our routines.

The All Seminary Council, better known as the ASC, is on campus to represent, be a resource and facilitate change on behalf of the students. Our desire is to promote community, encourage spiritual growth and ensure academic excellence.

More particularly, the ASC is a student council responsible to represent students on Joint Faculty, Spiritual Life, Trustee and other Seminary-wide committees. The ASC is a resource for educating students, concerning all matters of administration and council policy-making. It is structured to provide consultation, advice and direction for the three Graduate Unions (student representatives for the Schools of Theology, Psychology, and World Mission), as well as for the five Concerns Committees (students focusing on specific issues on campus). It works to integrate the curriculum, activities and goals of each Graduate Union and Concerns Committee.

If this explanation has added confusion to your already murky picture of the All Seminary Council, then come on over and chat a while. The ASC office is located on the first floor of Kreysler Hall (adjacent to the Catalyst) and our doors are open from Monday to Thursday. We welcome the opportunity to meet each one of you and to listen to your needs and concerns. Warm regards in Christ,

Rob Gallagher
